

ABOUT ALDELANO

Aldelano Packaging Corp. is one of the nation's leading contract packaging companies with seven operations in four states - Tennessee, Georgia, Louisiana and California; and administrative offices in Michigan and Ohio.

We offer an array of contract packaging services, including shrink wrapping, cartoning, assembly, display building, kitting, bagging and repacking, packaging materials.

Founded in 1968 by Al Hollingsworth, the company's customer roster includes major product manufacturers, including several Fortune 500 companies. Procter & Gamble, Kellogg's, Sunny Delight, American Airlines, Red Bull, Verizon, General Mills, American Honda Motor Co., Anheuser Busch, Coca cola, Gerber, Pepsi, Pillsbury.

We're known as experts in the contract packaging industry – providing labor, equipment and materials for our cutomers. Whether it's working onsite at a customer's facility or setting up shop at a nearby location within 15-45 days, we offer exceptional value and "to your door service." In fact, we've set up full-service operations in more than 20 cities nationwide.

Our proven track record has resulted in numerous awards and honors, including NMSDC's Corporate Plus® distinction -- an unprecedented membership program for minority business enterprises that have the proven capacity to handle national contracts for major corporations.

In 2004, we were granted Foreign Trade Zone status, which is a secured area within the U.S. where merchandise can be admitted without the immediate payment of customs duties or excise tax. The biggest advantage is the money this saves Aldelano's cutomers.

More and more product manufacturers – faced with limited production facilities, concerns about equipment investments, personnel training and more -- are outsourcing their packaging, warehousing and distribution functions to Aldelano. We have the experience and expertise to tackle these challenges on time and on budget.
